

Barnoli, Inc. HG 61789
As per Docket UT-091665

Petition for Reconsideration

To whom it may concern,

Thank you for taking a moment to read through this and possibly reconsidering the cancellation of the household goods carrier permit.

Let me start by admitting to the full brunt of the blame for the lateness of our reports and payments. As a small company we as much as anyone have felt the pains and pressures of the recent two plus years economic plunge. This has led to a necessitate search for other lines of employment, at first to supplement and later to replace income my company would normally produce. In the last seventeen months I have had to resort to restructuring my home loan, and later entering a remobilization program; defaulted on two credit cards; gone to court and had to pay nearly $2000 for a $400 problem due to a customers impatience; entered into arrears with my only source of advertising; and am now on a rocket towards a divorce.

When I was accepted to my new job thankfully it was and is full time plus, 40-52hrs/ week. It unfortunately also requires an additional 9-15hrs/ week of travel. All this combined with the time and cost of raising three children has usurped my will and all but crushed my spirit.

I know I make a positive difference in my community and have a fantastic referral rate amongst my past clientele. I would hate to think that I have to tell them that they need to find someone else to trust with their possessions, that's why they called me in the first place.

I'll finish by saying that I hope you see your way clear to reinstate the business. I hate to think that mine is such a huge transgression that my ability to function is silenced while local movers such as Mike the Mover, et al are allowed to continue on the road and not be shut down as aggressively as me. I am trying but also understand that better late than never doesn't always apply.

Thank you again for your time

Sean McElroy

Owner/operator

Barnoli, Inc. HG 61789

Family-of-movers@verizon.net

3703 Norton Av.

Everett, Wa. 98201